Overview:

PROS:

- High Damage
- Accurate
- Good Range
- Low Ammo Cost (vs. other assault rifles)
- Reloads Quickly

- High RoF

CONS:

- Low Ammo Capacity (vs. other assault rifles)

TACTICS:

With its short reload, high damage and accuracy, fast attack speed, and long range, the XMR-15 is a formidable weapon during both horde attacks and at attacking from a distance. Its small magazine size leaves something to be desired, although gear can be equipped to further decrease its already impressive reload time.

Recommended gear:

- Extended Mags to allow more shots to be fired before reloading, with some variants increasing reload speed as well.
- Ammunition Pouchs/Bandoliers for faster reloads.
- Glasses to increase its effective range, with some variants increasing accuracy as well.

BACKGROUND:

This experimental weapon based on the German G36 is HERC's custom version of the XM8, a prototype assault rifle designed to replace the aging M16/M4 rifles. What makes it unique from its basis is its versatility, allowing the operator to perform quick repairs and barrel changes on-site.

Developed by HERC, it has been field tested by HERC and survivors alike.
